

Dining At Stonewall Resort: Close to Nature. Far from Ordinary.

Stonewall Resort offers several unique dining venues that insure your experience will be as exceptional as the scenery. Stillwaters Restaurant, Lightburn's Restaurant and T.J. Muskies Lounge have been created and designed with the resort guest in mind.

Executive Chef Dale Hawkins has created menus showcasing the finest local ingredients from the forests, farms and waterways of West Virginia.

Stillwaters Restaurant offers regional cuisine with a southern twist and is sure to please the most discriminating palates, as well as the casual diner. From the traditional to the not-so-traditional fare, guests have several menus to from which to choose.

The main dining room features a state-of-the-art exhibition kitchen, large stone fireplace and twig-based Adirondack tables and chairs. Dark oak timbers outline the room while floor-to-ceiling windows offer views of the lake beyond.

The focal point of T. J. Muskies Lounge is the granite-topped bar and dry-stacked stone wall behind it. The freestanding stone fireplace in the center of the room exudes a coziness suited for the cooler fall and winter evenings.

Patio seating is available directly outside the lounge during the warmer months. There is even a fire pit reminiscent of camp excursions from days gone by where guests can enjoy the warmth of a roaring fire.

Situated on the highest point of the resort and offering panoramic views of the lake, Lightburn's Restaurant at the Palmer Course exudes a charm all its own. Whether seated on the outdoor deck or behind the floor-to-ceiling windows inside, guests will be treated to Chef Hawkins' "new Appalachian cuisine" served with a side of amazing scenery.

And, for those that enjoy their meals out amongst nature, the resort's 100-passenger excursion boat, named Little Sorrel, offers the occasional dinner cruise on Stonewall Jackson Lake.

Whatever the season or occasion Stonewall Resort provides guests with a myriad of menu offerings in a multitude of price ranges to be enjoyed in a variety of settings.
